

Alexandria Gazette

WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPT. 13.

A RUSSIAN WAR SONG.—Mr. Alfred Austin writes to us: "In the war-song officially composed for the occasion, and distributed among the Russian soldiers with the sanction of his imperial highness the Grand Duke, commander-in-chief, there occurs the following verse: 'Bear down upon the confounded Turks and take no prisoners! They have skinned and impaled [the Christians] and burnt them alive. No quarter can be given to them.' This is a literal translation of the fourth verse of the song as it has been printed in a Russian government paper, under Russian censorship. The above is an extract from a letter written to me by a German living in Germany, who is a Russian scholar and a person of position and respectability whom I can trust. It affords a strange commentary on the summons addressed by Germany to Turkey to observe the Geneva Convention. I do not doubt the reminder is much needed, but it is evident that the Grand Duke's soldiers, and I should say the Grand Duke himself, ought to be included in the remembrance, if his motive be philanthropic, not political."—Pull Mail Gazette.

The "three witty things said in Boston," according to Dr. O. W. Holmes, are Mr. Motley's saying—"Give me the luxuries of life and I can do without the necessities." Mr. Appleton's—"Good Bostonians, when they die, go to Paris," and—"After all, the feeling that she is well dressed brings a peace of mind to a woman which religion cannot give."
